The salutes, which should have been fired this afternoon in recognition of the accession of Her Majesty to the throne, were recalled at the last moment. The Nobles of the Kingdom met Her Majesty at one o'clock. Her Majesty inormed them that She was not ready to meet them and requested that they would assemble at the Palace tomorrow, to meet her at an hour to be hereafter appointed. Her Majesty's Cabinet were in council as the BULLETIN goes to press.

IN THE THRONE ROOM.

Sunday, February 15, was the day appointed for bearing to the tomb all hat was earthly of the late King Kalakana. The period that the body had rested in the Throne Room had been a selemn one. His Lordship the Bishop of Honolulu had performed frequent service over the dead Monarch. Morning and evening prayers had been offered by the Bishop, at which the Dowager Queen was always present. At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the scene in the Throne Room was most impressive. Invitations had been issued to all the officials and personal friends of the dead king. As the invited guests entered the Throne Room they were ushered to their seats by Mr. Ed. Styles, Clerk of the Foreign Office, and Vice Chamberlain Robertson, At the head of the coffin sat Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani, the Queen Dowager Kapiolani, Her Royal Highness Princess Poomaikelani, Hon. John O. Dominis, H. M.'s Consort; Hon. A. S. Clegborn, father of the Heir Apparent; His Excellency John A. Cummins, Premier, Cols. J. H. Boyd and Geo. W. Macfarlane, staff hind Her Majesty, to the right and rear of the royal party were Mrs. C. stood at the head, on the right and left of the casket. The dais on which the throne chairs

The various bodies to enter the line began assembling at the Square shorely after 10 o'clock, and as fast as they formed were disposed in their appointed order along King Crowds of people at the same time began to assemble on both sides of the entire route. It is safe to say that there were 10,000 spectators to the procession, while the number composing it would be somewhere between three and five thou-

The advance of the column began to move at 11:38, halting some distance up Nauann street. It was a quarter to 12 when the police turned he corner. There was a break in / the line at 12 o'clock between the Fire Brigade and the Myrele Bat Club. The first minute gon announcing the body's departure from the Palace sounded at 12:18, the battery on the summitted Punchbowl starting. The Monican's battery followed, then the Charleston's, after which the Punembowl battery fired the intermemary guns. The Mohican fired 30 guns, the Charleston 89, and Punchbowl, continuing till the close of ceremonies at the Mausoleum, fired 120 guas. When the first gun sounded the head of the column was 50 yards above Kukui street, threequarters of a mile from the Palace.

The rear of the procession passed the ectner of King and Nausnu streets at 12:51, and the head of the procession entered the Mausoleum Park at about 1:11. At the chief points the procession yielded grand pectacular effects. The long row of school girls in white, the military bearing of the St. Louis College and Kameliameha School, the brilliant streak of scarlet plumes of the Knights of Pythias, the shining detachment of the U.S. Marines, and the excellent marching of the American and British seamen, joined in one battation for the occasion-all were striking features of the kaleidoscopie scene. The never to be forgotten sight of all, however, was that of the gloomily grand catafalque and its surround-There were the hundreds of willing lunds of the white garmented Sons of Hawaii drawing the car. Then the kahilis like a moving forest of giant flower trees from Fairyland burst on the view and moved on their way like a vision. THE POLICE.

A detachment of police, composed of 16 men from each of the three watches, were the pioneers of the column. They were in command of Capt. Juen, as Major, assisted by Captains Kamana as Adjutant, and Lieutenants Makaila, Kaiena and Nahoolewa acting captains of the watches. At their head rode the Marshal of the Kingdom, Mr. Chas. L. Hopkins, with the Deputy Marshal, Mr. Gardner K. Wilder, and Captain E. Hopkins as Aids on either side. The 52 policemen were in the new uniform of the city force-dark blue with bright blue trimmings and black hats -and being all of sturdy physique were universally admired for their fine appearance. Their military bearing the march and their smartness and proficiency in guard duty at the Mausoleum showed a well-drilled condition. Besides the ordinary drill to which the force is regularly subjected, for this occasion they had been given a course of military drill by Officer J. Nahora Hipa, formerly Major of the Queen's Own.

THE SCHOOLS.

St. Louis College mustered 110 boys in three divisions-the band, boarding scholars, and the day scholars. They were in charge of Brother Heart, assisted by other Brothers of the faculty. The band under Bro. Francis, came in well near the head of the procession, its excellent music giving time to the marchers before and for a long stretch behind. The pupils made an attractive section of the column, in their soug navy blue military uniforms with ultramarine blue trammings and brass buttons.

Kamehameha School made an excellent turnout of 100 boys, in their martial-looking gray uniforms. They were marshaled by Mr. C. Davis, mechanical instructor, mounted, and they marched in good order and step.

The public schoo's were marshaled by Officer J. Nahora Hipa, truant policeman for the District of Kona. Their teachers in most cases marched with the respective schools. The children were mourning badges on their arms, and the girls were dressed in white with black trimmings. The Royal School turned out 140, and the total of the pupile schools The Reformatory School boys looked neat in blue overshirts, white trousers, and military cans. Oahu Coilege and Punahou Preparatory School turned out 52 students and scholars, conducted by Principai Hosmer and other gentlemen of the faculty.

HONOLULE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

China Engine Co. No. 5, leading the way, had a splendid turnout of 70 men and volunteer hose boys, making a fine showing, as they always do on parade, in their ultramarine blue shorts and black trousers fell in behind the Masons. The and hats. They were commanded number was fifty, wearing white by Foreman Chang Kim and Assistants Ho Mow and Fook Yee.

Protection Hook & Ladder Co., in black hats and trousers and red shirts, was 22 strong under Foreman Henry Kaia.

Honolulu Engine Co. No. 1, mustered 58 all told, led by Foreman Robert More and Assistant J. D. Mc-Veigh. Their recently adopted uniform consists of black trousers and hats and blue shirts with white trimmings.

Mechanic Engine Co. No. 2, in command of Foreman Jas. Hunt and Assistants J. W. McDonald and L. Kenake, rallied to the number of 52. Their uniform is composed of black trousers and hats, with bright re! shirts having the letter "M." worked in white on the breast. The members were decorated with mouraing badges bearing the portrait of the late King.

.The Fire Police, whose first publie appearance on parade was in the torchlight procession on the late King's last birthday, turned out 22 or about the full strength. Foreman Thos. Krouse was in command. The men are all stalwart fellows, making a striking appearance. Their uniform is a neat one, of white flannel shirts, black trousers and military caps. They were mourning badges.

Hawaii Engine Co. No. 4, of which the late King was formerly an active member and at death an honorary one, held the post of honor in the brigade. It mustered 40 men and shirts, decorated on this occasion with Kalakana mourning badges.

Assistant Geo. Norton. Fire Marshal J. C. White, and Mr. Henry Smith, Secretary, represented the Board of Representatives of the Fire Department. The Chief and Assistant wore full dress white helmets and carried brazen trumpets. Counting the offi-

VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS.

The Myrtle Boat Club attended in a body, to the number of 20, marshaled by Mr. A. G. M. Robertson. They were the club's colors, red and white, in the form of rosettes trimmed with crape.

The United Chinese Society and the Tong Hing Society together made up a body of 120, which included a large proportion of the wealthy Chinese merchants. A white and black banner was carried in front of the Tong Hings, coupling the name of Kalakaua with that of the society.

The two large Portuguese societies made a numerous appearance. The Sociedade Beneficente de Hawaii, headed by its President, Mr. Manoel A. Puxoto, had 91 members in the column. It had a handsome winte banner, with gilt fringe and mourning drapery, bearing the society's name in blue letters. The Portugese Mutual Benefit Society, 1 Decker & Barn's Square Piano, under its President, Mr. J. M. Vivas, mustered 68 men. This is the elder of the two societies, having established pleasant headquarters on Punchbowl Hill some years ago. The Santo Antonio, about a year old. has 1 recently taken commodious quarters on King street.

The American Legion of Honor, of which His late Majesty was a member insured for a snug amount, had 10 member to represent the two local Councils, Mr. Julius Asche being marshal. They wore the modest red badge of the Order, trimmed with

The Knights of Pythias, generally, were represented by Mr. Thos. F. Lloyd, Senior Past Chancellor, with Messrs. R. Cayford and J. Degreaves

on either side of him as Aids. The Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias made one of the most brilliant features of the procession. They numbered about 30 all told, in command of Sir Knight Captain C. J. McCarthy. In military uniform of dark blue blouses and trousers, scarlet-plumed white helmets, and red belts, stripes and epaulets, with white trimmings, they presented a gay sight. A curious thing to the uninitiated was th ir carrying of fatifiue caps strapped to their backs. At times they walked full rank front, and without halting would form into symbolic figures, such as single and double triangles, Maltese cross, etc. Geo. W. de Long Post, G. A. R., had fifteen veterans in line, under Captain John Ross, Post Commander. This was a very creditable showing, considering that some members walked in other bodies, and that this is an organization which cannot be recruited except from Union soldiers and sailors of the American rebellion.

Excelsior and Harmony Lodges. Independent Order of Oddfellows, contributed twenty-one members to the procession. They were mar-shalled by Mr. E. B. Thomas, and distinguished by various regalia and badges, according to rank and office.

The Freemasons in line numbered fifty-six, conducted by Captain the Hon. J. Tripp as Marshal. They wore the characteristic white aprons over black suits, and in wheeling at corners passed under the arch of crossed wands. At the Mausoleum they were joined by a score or so of brethren who had walked in other organizstions PM's A.I Certwright I A Hassinger and D. Dayton fell into line near the Mausoleum as representatives of the Masonic Veteran Association of the Pacific Coast. Mr. H. J. Nolte, in regalia, represented the Knights Templar among the pall-bearers, where Mr. Gideon West, of the 32d degree, represented the Knights of Kadosh, 30th degree, Scottish Rite, the highest branch of the order in Honolulu. The Executive Committee of the Hui Kalaiaina, for all the Islands, sashes on black suits. Mr. Daniel Lyons, marshal, wore a red sash.

The Liliuokalani Educational Society, First and Second Divisions, made a grand turnout of about sixty members. This society is composed entirely of Hawaiian ladies, and was founded by Her Majesty, whose name it bears. The object is to promote the education of Hawaiian girls, providing for the expense of the work in the case of the poor. A number of the wards of the society walked between the ranks at regular intervals. Most of the ladies wore blue and yellow rosettes on the left breast.

Another important native ladies' society followed, being the Hoola and Hooula Lahui Society, which is also under the patronage of the Queen. It had over 140 members in line, including many venerable dames. This organization is one of benevolence, having had much to do of the mamo feather lei)followed wear-
